

Dr. Bizri is a consultant in Internal Medicine and Infectious Diseases at the American University of Beirut Medical Center (AUBMC), Associate Chairperson for Clinical Affairs, and Director of Quality and Compliance Program at the Department of Internal Medicine. Dr. Bizri is an Affiliate of the Conflict Medicine Program at AUB. Served as the chairperson of the Infection Control Program and Infection Control Committee at AUBMC till 2005 and established many infection control programs in various teaching medical centers in both the private and public sectors. Has numerous publications on antibiotic resistance, and the changing epidemiology of infectious diseases mainly Salmonella, rabies, viral hepatitis, HIV/AIDS, invasive mycosis, microbiology of war related infections, and refugee medicine. Dr. Bizri has written many chapters in Internal Medicine and Infectious Diseases textbooks. He is a member of the editorial board of several international and regional journals. Participated and presented in numerous international meetings and serves as a WHO expert and advisor on infectious and transmissible diseases. Dr. Bizri has special interest in infections in conflict situation and viral hepatitis. Produced a number of manuscripts about the impact of the Syrian war on infectious diseases in Lebanon and the region. Presented several key note addresses at international, regional, and national meetings regarding wound infections and war trauma. Main investigator in several research projects related to wound management and healing. Areas of special interest include bacterial and fungal bio-films and the utilization of non-antibiotic antimicrobials in wound healing. A founding member and past president of the Lebanese AIDS Society as well as being a founding member and past president of the Lebanese Society of Infectious Diseases and Clinical Microbiology. Chairs and serves on several national expert committees on infectious diseases and immunization practices. Dr. Bizri is the current Secretary of the Executive Committee of the Arab Board of Internal Medicine and the chairperson of the committee to establish the Arab Board of Infectious Diseases.

Dr. Bizri has many affiliations with various pharmaceutical companies as a speaker and advisory board member and received several research funds and grants from pharmaceuticals and national and international research boards. Involved in establishing and updating several Lebanese Clinical Practice Guidelines and contracted by WHO and UNICEF to establish national and regional guidelines on several transmissible diseases. He also coauthored several regional guidelines on the management of viral hepatitis. Dr. Bizri was elected and served as the Mayor of City of Saida and the President of the Federation of Municipalities Saida-Zahrani Region between 2004 and 2010.