

Pete Masters is the Medical Innovation Advisor for MSF London supporting field teams and medical specialists in exploring challenges and opportunities, developing and testing of new ideas, scaling successes and learning from failures.

In previous MSF incarnations, Pete have launched and ran the Missing Maps project and was the original 'web guy' at MSF UK, developing the first digital tools, content, communities and strategy.